Notes:

1. Hey John: Terry's bluegrass treatment on the Kennedy saga, and the tragedy of a U.S. political dynasty.
2. Boats up the River: Our old-timey take on this Ola Belle Reed classic.
3. I'm Wearing a Hole: A bittersweet song about moving on, delivered as only Terry can.
4. I'll Give My Love to You: It is always fun when Dave does Buck Owens, bluegrass-style.
5. Up on the Blue Ridge: The boys rip this high-octane Scott Vestal instrumental.
6. Haunted Heart: Terry loved this spooky song the first time he heard it, but then lost track of it. Decades later, thanks to digital streaming technology, Terry hunted it down, and we're sure glad he did.
7. Josie's Reel: A warm Friday evening, a string band, and romance in the air. Need we say more?

8. Misery Loves Company: Paul and Dave break out the twin fiddles on this fast waltz, that Terry first heard sung by Porter Wagner.
9. Goodbye Liza Jane: Dave remembers his father singing this song. Yes, that's just Dave on banjo at the start!
10. I Let a Good Woman Go: Terry likes to sing songs that teach us a lesson. Take note.
11. Cherokee Shuffle: The DownTown Mountain Boys take on this classic tune—bring on the twin fiddles!
12. Born of the Wind: Featuring the trademark DownTown Mountain Boys wall of baritone sound, this Paul Craft song, covered by the Seldom Scene, was just too hard to resist.
